Course adds value for young learners

New lessons: Children are benefiting

CHILDREN are enjoying improved after-school lessons and activities at their mosque, thanks to a course supported by Haringey Council.

Teachers from eight madrassahs – supplementary schools within mosques – took part in the 12-week course, which helped them shape more interactive classroom sessions, plan lessons more effectively and safeguard and support students.

The council helped the mosques to bid for a place on the course, which is funded by central government.

Bernice Vanier, cabinet member for communities, visited the mosque in Wightman Road, Hornsey, to hand out certificates to the newly-graduated teachers and watch some of the new lessons being delivered.

She said: "It was fantastic to witness first-hand the wonderful new lessons these children are benefiting from, thanks to the hard work of their teachers on this course."

DEAL SPELLS END FOR APEX HOUSE

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

AMBITIOUS plans to regenerate the Seven Sisters area in Tottenham have been boosted by a deal struck by Haringey Council for Apex House to be bulldozed and replaced by 100 new homes.

Subject to planning approval, the run-down office block site, which is currently home to the authority's customer service centre, will be transformed by developers Grainger plc, which is already handling the redevelopment of the neighbouring Wards Corner site.

Combined, the schemes will provide a total of 300 homes for affordable rent and private sale and act as a catalyst for economic and environmental revival.

It includes 100 new shops, among them high street names, as well as dedicated space for independent traders, plus the creation of 800 construction jobs, more than £100million of investment and street improvements.

Traders at Seven Sisters indoor market will also be offered the option of moving to permanent retail units of the same size on the ground floor of the redeveloped Apex House building at discounted rents.

Construction could start as early as 2016.

Councillor Alan Strickland, cabinet member for regeneration and housing, said: "These exciting additional plans for Seven Sisters underline the growing ambition and confidence in Tottenham's future."

"These plans offer us the opportunity to improve Seven Sisters and bring in quality new housing and shops while preserving and enhancing the area's existing identity."

"Taken together with our vision for improved transport and further new housing, these plans repre-

New developments: Apex House will be demolished and the site redeveloped to accommodate 100 new homes sent a tremendous future for Tottenham."

David Walters, development director at Grainger, said: "The acquisition of Apex House demonstrates Grainger's on-going commitment to Seven Sisters and the council's vision for significant investment into the area.

"With the Victoria Underground line and mainline services, and a possible Crossrail 2 station and Housing Zone, Seven Sisters is an exciting location and this investment will further encourage more people to live, work and shop in Tottenham for the benefit of the local community."

"We are currently preparing design ideas for Apex House and look forward to discussing these with community groups, businesses and residents over."

£1m boost for community

A £1MILLION government grant will kick-start regeneration and tackle under-privilege and crime in Northumberland Park.

Residents of the area in Tottenham were involved in the bid for the urban renewal cash, from the government's Transformation Challenge Award Fund. They will work with Haringey Council, the Prince's Charities and leading addiction charity Blenheim CDP on various regeneration projects to tackle immediate day-to-day problems.

They are also directly involved in shaping the area's future as part of the council's 20-year plan to provide 1,200 new homes, a new public space, new community facilities and improved transport links.

Residents currently face greater health challenges and a lower likelihood of gaining qualifications, as well as suffering from higher levels of crime than elsewhere in the borough.

Alan Strickland, the council's cabinet member for regeneration and housing, said the 20-year regeneration plan would deliver huge benefits in high-quality housing, employment opportunities and transport links.

He explained: "While that long-term work is taking shape, this £1m funding will help us to work together quickly to deliver the ambitions of the community today."

"Putting power in the hands of residents demonstrates that local people are at the heart of our regeneration plans and together we can make a positive difference to the day-to-day lives of local people."

Dame Julia Cleverdon, special adviser to the Prince of Wales, said: "Having led the Prince's Charities' engagement in Tottenham in the last three years, we are all excited at the new opportunities to support the Northumberland Park residents in their determination to shape their neighbourhood, raise achievement and aspiration in schools and encourage enterprise, employment and skills for the future."

M25 crash chaos

A CRASH on the M25 in the early hours of yesterday morning wreaked havoc for commuters in the borough.

According to Essex Police, a number of lorries and cars crashed through the central reservation of the motorway between junctions 26 (Waltham Abbey) and 27 (M11) just before 2am.

One person was pronounced dead at the scene of the accident and three others were taken to hospital for "non-life-threatening" injuries.

Sections of the motorway were closed throughout the morning rush hour, leading to commuter chaos in Enfield as traffic jams tailed back along the North Circular Road and Great Cambridge Road.

Clockwise traffic was diverted off the M25 at junctions 23 and 25, to return to the motorway at junction 27 via the North Circular Road.

Traffic travelling anti-clockwise was diverted off at junction 27 to return at junction 26.

The police said that investigations into the cause of the accident were ongoing.

Have your say about cycling network plans, public urged

By Julia Gregory

newsdesk.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

A PUBLIC consultation into the £30million Cycle Enfield scheme, which will create bike networks throughout Enfield, will be launched in the new year.

The project will create a network of cycling routes on main roads and parks and quieter roads to make travelling safer for cyclists.

Enfield is one of three London councils to get cash from the Mayor of London to create their own Mini-Hollands for cyclists.

The scheme also aims to offer secure on-street bike parking and "hubs" where people can get their bikes fixed, with secure parking at stations to make the daily commute easier.

Surveys looking at parking, loading and town centre traffic will soon be getting under way in Enfield Town and along Green Lanes and London Road.

Enfield Cycling Campaign was involved in helping the council prepare its bid for cash for the scheme.

Borough co-ordinator Adrian Laughlan urged people to respond to the consultation. Earlier in the year, he said, traders in Palmers Green had been worried about the impact of a cycle route.

Councillor Chris Bond, cabinet member with responsibility for environment and community safety, said the local authority, was keen to fine-tune the scheme, explaining: "Our proposals for Cycle Enfield are complex and sophisticated and we are taking the time to get them right before we formally engage with residents and businesses for their comments." A roadshow was held in the centre of Enfield Town last Thursday when residents had a chance to chat to council staff about the plans.

However, Councillor Joanne Laban, the Conservative group's environment spokeswoman, criticised the council for not providing enough information, saying: "Communication has been lacking from the council on this issue which has caused concerns within the community."

Meetings will start late in January to update people on the plans.

The science of learning

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

“WHAT makes the earth warm up the most?” and “If the sun is a star, why isn’t it dead yet?” were just two of the probing questions primary school children asked one of the country’s leading scientists last week.

Lord Robert Winston, professor of science and society and emeritus professor of fertility studies at Imperial College London, addressed a group of ten-year-olds in the City Learning Centre, in Parsonage Lane, Enfield, on Wednesday.

A group of about 30 children from five different Enfield primary schools was brought together for a special session with Exscitec, a specialist education provider of science, technology, engineering and mathematics.

The class was part of a series of workshops created for Enfield Council’s primary schools science enrichment programme, which is backed by the Mayor of London’s London Schools excellence fund. The workshops provide intensive tutorials for a select group of children and their teachers, who learn about the myriad ways science has an impact on the world around us – knowledge they then pass on to their classmates.

Lecturers from Exscitec led the session with input from Imperial College.

As Lord Winston heads up the institute of reproductive and developmental biology at Imperial, he was invited to inspire the children to dizzying heights of scientific discovery.

In the midst of a bit of good, old-fashioned, gleeful, childish disgust at an experiment to share cells, the mini-science stars seemed most impressed at the idea that every one of their brains is more powerful than the London telephone exchange.

Lord Winston is chairman of the Genesis Research Trust, a charity which funds research into women’s health and investigates issues including the genes involved in women’s cancers.

When asked what could be done to boost the Lord Winston’s lessons for eager youngsters

Learning from the expert: Lord Robert Winston talked to children from Enfield primary schools about life, the universe and everything numbers of women in the field of scientific research and discovery, he pointed to the example of his own research library.

“In my laboratory there are far more women than men,” he said. “Out of all the scientists who work there, most of them are women.

But he admitted: “We have to have women role models, that’s one of the issues, too”, and he added that getting more women into the fields of medicine, medical research and science “is happening”, but that a culture change was needed on old-fashioned attitudes towards the roles of men and women in society. Primary schools, he said, is where it should start.

“Primary school teaching is much harder than secondary school teaching in many ways, but primary school teachers are not valued because it is thought to just be looking after small children,” he said.

“One of the problems with our current system is that young women, aged 15 or 16, don’t have the confidence to perform experiments,” adding that he believed that was because of “the way our teaching system is structured”.

It’s a cracker: Edmonton County pupils served food and sang

Youngsters serve up a Christmas treat

SIXTH-FORM students from an Edmonton school showered festive cheer on pensioners with a Christmas bonanza.

The pupils at Edmonton County School, in Great Cambridge Road, escorted older residents into the school hall, where they were regaled with performances of traditional Christmas songs given by youngsters, including a particularly impressive blast of Rudolf the Red Nose Reindeer by Years 1 and 2 at Edmonton County Primary School, led by music teacher Michelle Harper.

With the teenagers waiting hand-and-foot on their guests and keeping their plates stocked with mince pies and sausage rolls, the pensioners told the Advertiser how thrilled they were.

Ron Pippin, 84, of Lynmouth Avenue, Bush Hill Park, said he was particularly moved by the choice of traditional songs that were performed by the students this year.

“It is really nice that the young people want to give something back to society,” said Mr Pippin. “It is a lovely day and I am very grateful for all their efforts.”

One of the sixth-formers who helped out by taking pictures was 16-year-old Gizem Yavuz, who is studying AS-level photography and said: “Christmas is all about helping other people and things like this are really important to make all our community feel safe and happy.”

Marching against violence

FRIENDS and relatives of a teenager who was stabbed in Palmers Green staged a march on Saturday calling for the end of youth violence to mark the first anniversary of his death.

The march was organised with anti-gang campaigners Get Outta The Gang to remember Joshua Folkes, who was attacked in Bowes Road, as well as other victims of youth violence.

The marchers set out from Palmerston Road and walked two-and-a-half miles to Joshua's grave in New Southgate Cemetery, in Brunswick Park Road, where they staged a candlelit vigil.

Dominique Fitzpatrick, Joshua's mother, said: "This is about making a stand. I feel like I need to do something to put violence at the forefront of people's minds."

She said she was concerned that violence could become "further ingrained in our communities' way of life."

□ Three people were cleared earlier this year of murdering Joshua.

Man, 20, accused of murder

A MAN has been charged with murder after a 23-year-old was stabbed to death in Edmonton last week.

Jeffery Kessie, 20, of Nuneaton, Warwickshire, was remanded in custody when he appeared at Hendon Magistrates' Court on Saturday accused of the murder of Khiry Ford, who died in the early hours of Sunday, November 30, following a brawl in Haselbury Road.

Two teenagers have been charged with robbery by detectives investigating the fatal attack.

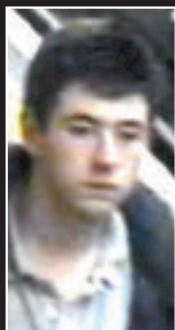

Charles and Deo Tamale, both 18, of St Edmund's Road, Edmonton, were remanded in custody until December 18 when they appeared at Hendon Magistrates' Court on Friday.

Five other teenagers who were arrested last week have been released on police bail until a date early in January pending further inquiries.

Stabbing victim: Khiry Ford

Sex assault on boy outside station

POLICE are appealing for information after a teenage boy was sexually assaulted outside a Tube station.

The 13-year-old was leaving Southgate station with his family just before 7pm on Wednesday, October 29, when the suspect approached him and touched him inappropriately.

British Transport Police have released images of a man, left, they want to speak to in connection with the incident.

Detective Constable Gareth Jones, who is investigating the incident, said: "The boy told his mother about this, but the man left the station. We will not tolerate any such behaviour on the rail network and need to find the person responsible for this assault. I believe the man in the image we have issued can help with our investigation."

Anyone with information can call British Transport Police on 0800 40 50 40, or text 61016, quoting reference TSUB/B7 of 03/12/2014. Information can also be given anonymously to Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

Pupils learn about Great War soldier

HISTORY came to life as pupils and a government minister learned about ethnic minority soldiers who served in World War I.

Children at Walker Primary School discovered the wartime experiences of Nepalese soldier Sher Singh Rana, from the Gurkha Rifles, who fought in Neuve Chapelle, in northern France, Ypres, in Belgium, and Gallipoli, in Turkey, before he was captured by the Germans.

They were joined by Dr Andrew Murrison, the Prime Minister's special representative for the centenary commemorations of the war, who is also parliamentary under secretary of state for Northern Ireland.

The children aged nine to 11 at the school, in Waterfall Road, Southgate, heard about Sher Singh Rana's life and composed a letter home from the soldier as part of a Trench Brothers project.

They also made puppets of soldiers, handled artefacts from the Great War provided by the National Army Museum and met actors who brought the stories to life.

Trench Brothers was developed by Palmers Green-based HMDT Music arts organisation, which is hoping to work with 3,500 children from 50 schools over the next three years.

They have also collaborated with composers Julian Joseph and Richard Taylor to create songs inspired by wartime stories.

Creative director Tertia Sefton-Green said: "We wanted to focus on the contributions of ethnic minority soldiers that no one knows about. I think we have found a particularly sensitive way of making it meaningful."

After joining the pupils as they learnt more about an often forgotten aspect of World War I history, Dr Murrison said: "Trench Brothers is an imaginative and inspiring project taking the incredible story of our Great War ethnic minority soldiers to London primary schools."

"It is a wonderful synthesis of music, theatre and puppetry engaging young people and challenging them to think about the events of a century ago."

Bill Linton

THE Transatlantic Trade & Investment Partnership, aka TTIP. No, don't turn off yet – this is important. It's a treaty being negotiated in secret between the EU and the US. Supposedly, it will reduce barriers to trade and generate loads of money and thousands of jobs. But we've been there before: NAFTA (the North Atlantic Free Trade Agreement, between the US, Canada and Mexico) got the same build-up, but has cost a million jobs, and the money has all gone to multinational companies. Actually, there are hardly any barriers to EU-US trade. What TTIP is really about is reducing "red tape", i.e. those regulations that outlaw things like pollution, regulations that protect us. And there's worse. TTIP will set up a separate system of courts, controlled by corporate lawyers, in which companies can sue governments which pass legislation that reduces profits. Under a similar treaty Philip Morris is suing Australia for introducing plain packaging for cigarettes. This is a direct assault on democracy. It hands over our sovereignty lock, stock and barrel to big business. It's not too surprising that the Tories want to do that as they scarcely bother to conceal any more that they work for the one per cent. More startling is that Labour and the Lib Dems are also in favour. Even UKIP, whose raison d'être is supposed to be retention of UK sovereignty, is behind TTIP. Happily, the Green Party, 38 Degrees, War on Want and many others are fighting it, and there are signs that we are winning. We'd better.

Leaving parks unlocked will cost us dear

I READ with interest of the plan to save £26k by not locking park gates at night. Surely common sense tells you that park equipment such as benches, swings, huts and flowers will cost more to replace every year than the £26k saved once the late-night visitors have finished with them – not to mention the anti-social aspects and the cost of cleaning up beer cans etc. There is also a fear of children during the day finding a few needles left behind: who pays the compensation should that arise? This obviously will lead to parks falling into disrepair and ultimately unusable, which brings me to the actual point. Call me cynical and long-sighted, but I am sure Councillor Chris Bond has commonsense (despite being involved in what this country now calls democracy). So why would he allow an idea that will obviously see open spaces become an eyesore and unusable by the public? Maybe there are some nice property developers in the background who could offer advice and financial help to the good councillor should that problem arise! Now that sounds more like British democracy nowadays. Colin Whyte

This traffic scheme can help save lives

THERE certainly are times when people need to act as adults ("Tell us about Green Lanes traffic plans", Advertiser, December 3). Rather than coming out of the blue, as Bob King implies, the Quieter Neighbourhood consultation, planned to cover most of the borough in 34 separate cells – and not simply the Lakes Estate, as he suggests, has been extremely well signalled. From the original bipartisan bid by our two main political parties seeking government money to improve our borough, through press comment and more locally for Mr King, via the local community website, a residents' association meeting plus circulars and several mails, a public meeting – of which he was made aware – and more, the intent has been clear.

King, in worrying about displaced congestion as a consequence, may be interested to learn of a business association/residents' association joint approach facilitated by the last Tory administration and subsequently picked up by the Labour administration to improve that road stretch locally for all stakeholders. And why all this funded activity seeking a move from the traffic-centric status quo by the main political parties, the London Assembly and central government? A wide range of reasons, including reducing road deaths and injuries, tackling congestion and encouraging children to get away from screens and exercise for health and social reasons. What is not yet public is research data from the Department of Health's Committee on the Medical Effects of Air Quality, expected to highlight adverse air qualities' contribution at up to 18 per cent of all deaths in the UK. Winning tens of millions of pounds of investment as one of a small number of all-London pilot areas to help address such fundamental problems would normally be viewed as a success for Enfield. Sorting out what may prove to be some of the major public health issues of our age or throwing juvenile stones at those who bother to try is an individual's choice. It's a democracy after all. K Brown

Safe cyclists, not-so-safe pedestrians

IT is so wonderful to know everyone is looking after our cyclists. Now they have their crash hats, elbow pads (optional), bright lights, fluorescent clothing, special cycle lanes – even their own roadway and traffic lights in some places. And they have their own stopping area ahead of ALL other traffic should they decide to stop at a red light. I even noticed one bike that had an audible warning device – a bell – attached. Now how about a little law enforcement of their riding IN the road instead of along the pavements, up and down kerbs, and zig-zagging around folk, just so that pedestrians can share a little of that safety themselves? Rodd Morgan

Plans are stuck in the slow lane

DESPITE all the statements from the Mayor of London about cycling being good for your health and good for the environment, the creation of safer junctions and segregated cycle lanes is painfully slow. Most of the cycling superhighways and their extensions, which Boris Johnson promised six years ago, won't be finished by the time he leaves office. Only 10 of the most dangerous junctions will have been made safer and there will be no money left in the budget. Darren Johnson

A big thank you

As the organisers of the Poppy Appeal in Enfield Town we would like to thank the local community for their efforts and generosity in supporting the appeal. This year, the appeal in Enfield Town area has raised more than £28,000. Lorraine Hopwood and

Don't duck the boy racer issue

IT is a shame that the response from Enfield Council to tackling boy racers on the A10 is yet again to give deflective comments to your paper that try to shift the attention on to me. I have spoken to more than 100 people now on both sides of the A10 and all I am asking for is for the council to take action and try to stop this from occurring. Colchester Council has taken advantage of new legislation and is trying to stop the boy racers meeting in retail car parks. Yet in Enfield...nothing. From his response I doubt Councillor Achilleas Georgiou even realised the council had the power to do this. Since being elected in May I have noticed the default reaction of most of the cabinet is to try and blame everyone else for its lack of activity or mistakes. How about the council takes responsibility and pro-actively tries to stop our roads being treated as race tracks? Councillor Nick Dines

Attention: DENTURE WEARERS Attention: DENTURE REPAIRS

If you are a denture wearer then this article may be of some interest to you!! If you can relate to any of the following questions then it is a sign your denture needs attention:

- Do not fit as well on your gums as they used to?
- Are they loose?
- Do not cut food as well as they used to?
- Do they make your face look older?
- Have discoloured despite meticulous cleaning or
- Cause discomfort/pain on chewing?

If any of the above breeds familiar territory then I may be able to alleviate some of these problems for you. My name is Caroline Persaud I am a qualified CLINICAL DENTAL TECHNICIAN. Many of you may be aware of Dental Technicians/Mechanics who repair and produce dentures for dentists, however, due to recent changes in the Dental law, a group of Dental Care Professionals known as Clinical Dental Technicians have been approved by the General Dental Council and can now see denture wearers who have no natural teeth remaining, directly without having to visit a dentist. The advantages to you, the patients, are numerous. You can be treated by a professional who has been clinically trained to undertake the impressions of your mouth and who also has the technical skill to manufacture your denture to meet your requirements. A more direct, rapid and personalised service, that can be delivered to you in the comfort of your own home or at my day clinic in Edmonton. If you wish to discuss any denture related issues please do not hesitate to contact me on: 020 8803 4529 CPP DENTURE STUDIO Dentures are a very personal and an essential part of life, those of you that require them should feel comfortable and confident to wear them.

Christmas in the 17th century brought to life by candlelight

CANDLELIGHT will flicker across the walls of Forty Hall as Christmas in a civil-war era home is brought to life.

Spectres of a bygone age will prowl the halls of the grade 1 listed Jacobean manor house, in Forty Hill, Enfield, with candlelight casting the only illumination on scenes of romance, intrigue, comedy and high drama.

The actors will give audiences an insight into Christmas time in the year 1645 while hot apple juice and mince pies add to the Yuletide atmosphere. The third annual Forty Hall by Candlelight tour will see volunteers, including children, performing scenes they helped write in workshops funded by an Arts Council grant.

Rohini Simbodyal, Enfield Council's cabinet member for culture, said: "The theme this year touches on the experiences of the family living during the turbulent Civil War, where only Sir Nicholas Rainton survives with his great-nieces and nephews, his wife, nephew and niece-in-law having died in the preceding years."

This year's performances conclude this week – tomorrow and on Friday and Saturday, starting at 5.30pm, 6pm and 6.30pm. Tickets are £10 for adults and £8 for children and can be bought online from www.fortyhallestate.co.uk or by calling 020 8363 8196.

"Now customers are following me online, I can give them a heads up on the latest trends"

Tiffanne Williams, hairdresser in London

As 2014 is drawing to a close, we all look back and wonder how time passes us by so quickly. We plan our New Year's resolutions and hope to stick to them. But do we ever?

I for one want to end the year happy and not in hope of a better beginning, so in that spirit here are a few ideas and recommendations from us that will help you end 2014 on a high.

When we smile, our teeth are one of the first things other people notice. Dentasmile offer an honest and quality service. They have even helped my son finally conquer his fear of dentists as the attentive staff made him feel relaxed and assured.

North London Aesthetic Clinic can help you pucker up with luscious lips just in time for mistletoe kisses. They offer great deals for QPL hair reduction and for removals of unwanted tattoos - you are sure to see results! Their holistic massage is a perfect gift or treat for those aching muscles, tired bones or just a little pampering!

On Saturday night, I was welcomed by Chickenshed with their spectacular show Peter Pan. The cast were amazing and I wondered why I had never gone to there before. It was full of laughter and heart warming moments that left us all feeling united as we clapped to save Tinkerbell. We sang along and people of all ages were smiling and laughing as the cast encouraged the crowd to join in with the banter.

Hunters Of Cockfosters offers traditional dining and quality service in an old school setting with Tuscan landscape murals. They have proven why they have been in business for over 30 years.

Masala Lounge is surely worth trying from experienced curry lovers to those newly introduced to the charm of esoteric Indian cuisine.

Highland Angus Steak House has been in business for over 40 years. They have a huge collection of mouth watering meats at great prices that satisfy all of the family.

FAMILY ANNOUNCEMENTS

Tributes after death of Arctic convoys survivor

Honoured: Ken Bradley received the Ushakov medal at the Russian embassy in London a few months ago after serving on the Arctic convoys during World War II

By Julia Gregory

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

A VETERAN of the Arctic convoys has died at the age of 94 – just months after being awarded a medal from the Russian government.

Kenneth George Bradley joined the Royal Navy and served throughout World War II as a stoker.

He was awarded the Africa Star, Burma Star, Atlantic Star and Arctic Star for his wartime service.

Mr Bradley, known as Ken to his family and friends, grew up in Bush Hill Park, where his mother ran a corner shop.

He was a keen water polo player and a good swimmer and worked as an engineer with his brother Alf before joining up.

Berny Stringle, who is married to Mr Bradley's niece Diane said: "He got through the Arctic convoys on HMS London. He was terribly proud and amazed that the Russians gave him the Ushakov medal."

The risky convoys delivered food and military equipment to starving Russians. They came under attack from German submarines and aircraft and 3,000 seamen lost their lives on the convoys between 1941 and 1945.

Winston Churchill described it as "the worst journey in the world".

Mr Stringle said: "We discovered that in the middle of this summer he was invited to the Russian embassy and given vodka and caviar. He did not tell us anything, but at 94 years old he went up on the Tube."

"We found a snap of him in Penang in 1946, too. He was powerful and at 19 he became a stoker in the Royal Navy. He survived six years of sea battles and was in Penang when the Japanese surrendered."

"Ken always considered that he was 'one of the lucky ones' and gave generously throughout his life to the Red Cross, Salvation Army and Guide Dogs for the Blind. We will add Cancer Research."

"He got through the war unscathed. He did say as a stoker he was sorry for the people on the deck in the Arctic convoys."

After the war Mr Bradley resumed his career as an engineer and worked for the water board. He and his late wife Eileen were together for more than 40 years and lived in Park Nook Gardens, Enfield.

Mr Bradley was diagnosed with prostate cancer and travelled to hospital on his three-wheeler motorbike. He died on November 22 after undergoing treatment at the London Heart Hospital.

Mr Stringle added: "He was hugely popular with young people because he had a lot of time for them. He was one of those people who would tell a joke with tears in his eyes because of the punchline. He was very witty and he was absolutely adored."

"He was one of those people you could take anywhere, he was absolutely unpretentious. I think because of what he'd been through he did not covert very much. Everything was a bonus."

Mr Bradley enjoyed watching football and swimming and was a keen gardener.

He also loved jazz and his great nephew, jazz clarinetist Julian Marc Stringle, will play at his funeral at Enfield Crematorium on Monday.

Getting straight to the point

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

PONDERING the meaning of life is usually the preserve of bearded, pipe-smoking philosophers, or those who subscribe to a religious belief.

Cue two "ordinary northern" women having a chinwag about such a lofty topic over a cuppa.

They explore the subject matter in What's the Point? – the first play written jointly by seasoned actresses Sammie Winmill and Shani Solomons, who also take the roles of the two female characters.

To the point: Actresses and playwrights Sammie Winmill and Shani Solomons

Both have impressive theatre and television acting credits to their names.

Sammie, who lives in Enfield, appeared in The Duchess of Duke Street and The Tomorrow People, while Shani, who lives in Mill Hill, has had parts in EastEnders, The Bill and Absolutely Fabulous.

Their 45-minute production is being staged this Saturday for one night only at The Centre, in Bath Street, Barnet, and is followed by a question and answer session and discussion.

The two women met three years ago and decided to collaborate on a script dealing with the question they say many of us have asked ourselves – what point is there to life?

"It's a light-hearted humorous play which begins with two characters engaging in conversation about the unimportant importances of life, which they perceive to be deeply profound and intelligent," explains Sammie. "As it continues they realise they may be on the brink of a journey of self-discovery."

The duo aren't divulging whether the play reveals the reason for existence, but say if it gets people thinking more positively about the point of it all, then it will have been a success. Tickets are £5.

You can have your event included in the Enfield Advertiser/Barnet Press for free from January. To have your gig, meeting, jumble sale or class considered for publication, send the details AT LEAST 10 DAYS before the issue date to: What's On, 187 Baker Street, Enfield, EN1 3JT. You can email details of your event to: ciaran.mcgrath@nlhnews.co.uk – PLEASE NOTE: We cannot guarantee that all entries will be included.

About Angels Sales & Lettings

DIRECTOR of Angels Sales & Lettings, Prem Singh has over 15 years experience in residential sales and lettings and has dealt with thousands of different types of clients. He worked for over eight years for a notable London estate agency with 10 offices working his way from a Negotiator to Area Manager, achieving many accolades and awards for his achievements and professional work ethic.

During early 2007, Prem identified a niche in the residential sales and lettings market and decided to go it alone to establish one of the areas leading estate agencies.

Angels Sales & Lettings as established in August 2007, through the undertaking of a gap analysis and niche in the market to provide a good quality, honest and professional service to landlords, tenants and vendors with no gimmicks; providing a real return to customers in addition to supporting a number of UK charities donating % of profits each month.

Angels Sales & Lettings started from a first floor office above a dentist on a High Street in Enfield, Angel Square (conveniently named). Armed with just his experience, phone and a desk, hard work and dedication the business started to grow and after six months, recruited his first employee. Angels grew from strength to strength and opened its flagship office in 2008. Within one year the team expanded and has continued to ever since.

The recession kicked in and this was a bad time for all small businesses, particularly new ones. However, Angels continued to offer the same quality service without compromising the standard offered to all clients and thrived in the competitive market, and as a result have achieved countless recognition awards for Top Letting agents in the area.

With strong branding, good staff, location and presence, Angels are growing and getting stronger as time goes on due to strong brand value, good client base and prime high street location.

We advertise and market on all major Internet portals and local newspapers each week.

We specialise in residential sales, lettings and property management.

We offer a fully referenced service including CCJs, bankruptcy and fraud checks that include financial information along with all necessary documents to comply with the Money Laundering regulations.

We also offer free rent guarantee & legal cover with Homelet on all Fully Managed Services.

We are currently experiencing a surge in the sales and letting market with many buyers and tenants waiting for properties achieving top prices & rents.

We are accredited and endorsed by the Property Ombudsman scheme to ensure we are compliant with all company regulations and industry standards.

If you have a property you wish to sell or let, contact Angels Sales & Lettings for free no obligation valuation and for some more information regarding our 0% offer.

Senior Science Technician

Salary Point 24-28 (Pro rata)
£22,833 to £25,710 pro rata
44 weeks per annum

London Academy is an ambitious 11-19 mixed multicultural comprehensive school in North London. We have 1600 students with 480 in the Sixth Form and we are oversubscribed. In January 2014 we were listed as one of the Top 100 schools in the country for the improvement in our GCSE results over the last three years.

The Academy has a bespoke pedagogy underpinned by a belief that all students can achieve through effort, deliberate practice, and engagement in a meaningful and purposeful curriculum. You join a committed and vibrant body of staff, passionate about the achievement of our students.

You will deal with a wide variety of work up to 'A' level in all three sciences, therefore you must be qualified, experienced, an effective communicator, with strong interpersonal and management skills and a willingness to work as part of a team.

You will lead the Science Technician Team in the provision of general practical support in the Science Department and to the Science Staff. You will provide direct administrative support to the joint Heads of Science. You will have a secure understanding of health and safety procedures and in conjunction with the Joint Heads of Science will ensure the proper implementation of the safety policy and the preparation and application of risk assessments within the science department.

You will be enthusiastic, flexible, organised and methodical, with excellent attention to detail. The ability to prioritise a busy workload is essential, as is the need to meet deadlines whilst dealing with interruptions. Experience of working in a school environment would be an advantage but is not essential. Experience in use of spreadsheets and working with databases is essential.

London Academy is committed to safeguarding and promoting the welfare of children and young people and expects all staff and volunteers to share this commitment.

A job description, person specification and application form is available from our website, www.londonacademy.org.uk, but you can also request an application pack by emailing office@londonacademy.org.uk. If you want to work with us, then we look forward to hearing from you. We welcome informal discussions, please contact Jonathan Morrell, Deputy Principal.

SPURS' STALEMATE FRUSTRATES LLORIS

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlrthnews.co.uk

GOALKEEPER Hugo Lloris admitted that Tottenham Hotspur had found Crystal Palace hard to break down after they had to settle for a 0-0 draw from Saturday's Premier League meeting between the sides at White Hart Lane.

Spurs have found wins tough to come by at home all season, and that proved to be the case again in a game of few clear-cut chances.

Roberto Soldado, Paulinho and Christian Eriksen did go close for the hosts, but it was Palace who had the better opportunities – with Lloris doing well to thwart Scott Dann and Jason Puncheon, who also hit the bar.

"It was a tough game and we expected that," the keeper said. "Crystal Palace were strong but we couldn't find a solution, we didn't create space and we were a bit slow with the ball.

"We felt that the game could turn quickly, but in the end it's a draw and we have to keep believing and keep working.

"If you want to be positive maybe two months ago we would have lost this game. I think we are still improving, and I'm sure we will do much better in the second half of the season.

"This month is important and we have to stick at the top end of the table. We need to believe and we know now the Swansea game on Sunday is important for us."

And head coach Mauricio Pochettino felt that tiredness was partially to blame for Spurs' lacklustre display at the end of a busy week for the side.

"It is difficult, it was the third game in six days," he said. "We played on Sunday and then against Chelsea on

A difficult afternoon: Hugo Lloris admitted that Spurs found it tough against Palace

Wednesday, so we had one day less to recover than Palace.

"Maybe we had a lack of freshness and it didn't make it easy. This is the schedule and we have to accept it, but it's reality.

"We put in a good effort, but against Palace, who did a good job, it was difficult and we need to look ahead now.

"It wasn't easy. Hugo made one or two saves and they played well. We know that Palace are a very tough team, very physical. It wasn't a good game for us.

"I'm disappointed and frustrated, but at the end I think the result was fair. We had a lack of creativity up front."

Pochettino: Kane was always part of my plans

HEAD coach Mauricio Pochettino insists that he never had any intention of allowing striker Harry Kane to leave Tottenham Hotspur on loan this season.

Crystal Palace manager Neil Warnock had claimed during the build-up to Saturday's meeting between the two sides that he had tried to sign Kane on loan in the summer – and believed that the young forward would have been allowed to temporarily leave White Hart Lane had Spurs not been involved in the Europa League.

But Pochettino denied that was the case and is adamant that Kane – who has scored 11 goals this season – had always been a big part of his plans.

"It is the first time I have heard this information," Pochettino said. "Our first idea was to keep Harry and give him chances to play. My idea was to keep Harry because we believe in him and his potential to play for Tottenham.

"He has shown since that we were right in our decision to keep him. At the moment Harry is not feeling any pressure. It is important that he is a player who feels the club, he came through the academy and he knows our values.

"He is English, he shows passion and is in very good condition – he is a very important player for us."

Kane's fine form has seen him force his way into Spurs' Premier League starting line-up at the expense of the misfiring Emmanuel Adebayor.

However, Pochettino insists that Adebayor – who is currently sidelined with a virus – remains a key part of his plans.

"My relationship with Emmanuel is very good," he added. "After the international break he came back with a back problem and after that he got a virus.

"I spoke with him at training and he is not ready to play, he still felt weak – maybe in the next few games he will be ready to help the team.

"All the players in the squad are in my plans for the future. It is normal for there to be a lot of speculation in the media around the players and the club, but I don't comment on that."

Borough forced to work for win

TABLE-TOPPING Haringey Borough were forced to battle hard before securing a 3-1 victory at home to Waltham Forest in the Essex Senior League on Saturday.

Borough have only failed to win once in the league this season, and it took them just six minutes to break the deadlock in this match as Lynvall Duncan reacted quickest to turn in the rebound after visiting keeper William Hunt did well to beat out a free-kick.

Twenty minutes later the hosts doubled their advantage as Darrell Cox scored from another rebound after Hunt had brilliantly parried Walid Matata's initial effort.

But Waltham Forest fought back well and put their hosts under a spell of sustained pressure prior to the interval.

The visitors did not get any reward for this, but they did reduce their deficit seven minutes into the second half when Luke Ifil netted with a low shot from close range.

Borough continued to be forced on the defensive, and an equaliser seemed to be on the cards for long spells.

However, the hosts held firm and they finally made sure of victory with seven minutes remaining as Matata drilled home a penalty which was awarded for a tired tackle in the box.

The victory left Borough seven points clear at the top of the table heading into last night's matches, which saw the side hosting Sawbridgeworth Town.

Haringey Borough go to Tower Hamlets on Saturday (3pm), before entertaining Stansted on Tuesday (7.45pm).
